

Foreword

Is the season 2008 already forgotten? No, on the contrary! We have memories of romantic tours, beautiful nature and people, above all. And the next season is just in front of us. Crisis too, but “Falco” is ready to fight it. Join us and visit romantic and wild places where crisis will never come, where the nature lives its life like thousands years ago, where people live their lives like their ancestors used to.

Crisis – to give up or to paddle forward

This worldwide financial crisis will affect whole tourism market and many paddlers are probably considering the possibility of staying at home this summer. But two of “Falco’s ” tours are made for them. Those are “ Pearls of Dalmatia” (12 days of paddling) and “Peljesac peninsula” tour. And why is that?

According to our experience many of our guests from USA and other distant countries want to stay in Croatia and paddle more than seven days. Therefore we’ve made “ Pearls of Dalmatia” – 12 days paddling tour from May 28 to June 8 : three days in Split, Trogir and Omis, seven days on mother ship and two days in Dubrovnik. In our opinion this tour is the best we offer! Why – look at our web site!

Second, for just 585 € you can have two hotel and seven camping overnights, kayaks, tents and other equipment rental, van transfers from and to airport and expert guiding. And two dinners. You can choose what and where to eat along the route in small villages and towns and for less than 100 € a day you can have great paddling vacations. If you choose this tour your friends will be very jealous next winter.

Sea on one side, freshwater lake on another and a small creek in between – southern seas paradise.

And the tour itself has everything you need: adventure and safety, tiny remote beaches and old walled cities, picturesque small villages and unspoiled nature. And some genuine natural phenomena. The Pelješac peninsula is long and narrow, with very high mountains in the middle. On the mountain slopes there are world famous vineyards of strong red wine. Along the coast there are numerous large and small beaches and a number of small islets. Visiting the old walled city of Korčula on the nearby island is also included, and it is only about a kilometre away from the peninsula. Except that trip, the whole tour is just paddling along the coast. Peninsula is connected with the mainland with a very narrow strip of land, so it looks almost like an island. The start of our tour is in the town of Ston on one side of the strip and the end in the village of Mali Ston on another, just a kilometre away. You can say that's the 15 minutes tour by feet or ten days in kayak.

Peljesac peninsula and surrounding area – blue and green tiny piece of Mediterranean waiting to be discovered

The tour is designed especially for groups of young people who like spending time in nature and good company, with paddling and swimming during the day and perhaps a guitar and the campfire in the evening. The genuine anti-crisis tour.
